

We have moved hundreds of animals from this fate since 2002!!!

THANK YOU

for supporting these missions

The Animal Rescue Network of New England seeks to create a unified network of shelters and rescue organizations throughout New England, all working together for a common good.

For the Love of Dog - Rottweiler Rescue of New Hampshire rehomes adoptable dogs in northern New England and exists to reduce animal cruelty in the area.

Where do they all come from?

South of the Border Transports

- In many southern states pet overpopulation is a way of life

Spay/neuter is a luxury, not a necessity

Warmer climates lead to

Animal shelters deal with overpopulation ~ not by lethal injection...but by gas chambers

Michigan Mission

Many counties in Michigan practice “Pound Seizure”. Dealers purchase the stray pets for a small sum ($10 is common) and the pets are sold to research labs (or worse) where they are tortured before death ...

Michigan Mission Dogs

In shelters in our northeastern neighbors, animals are doubled and tripled in pens for lack of space

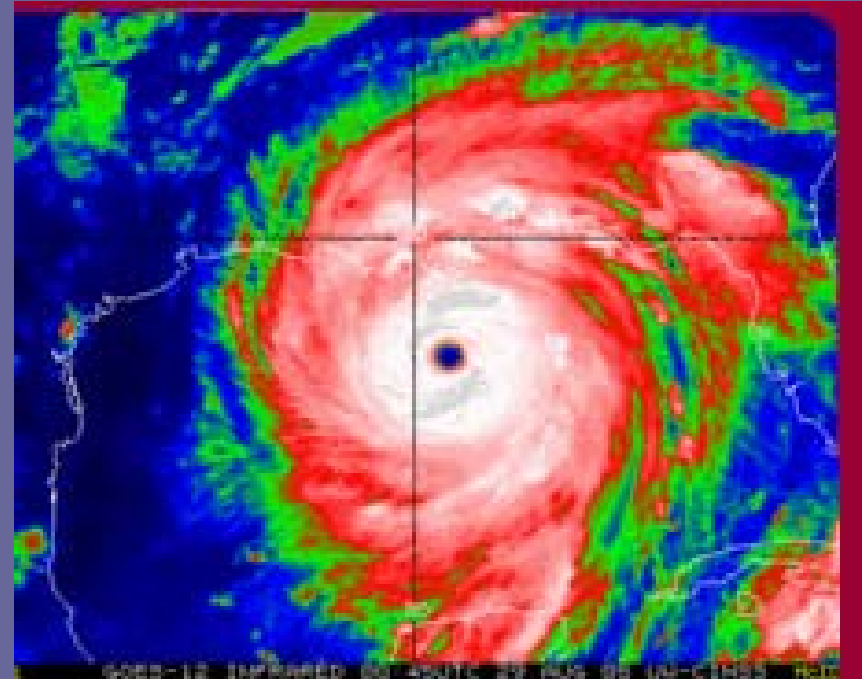

Rescue liaisons work round the clock to facilitate transports

Hurricane Katrina

Hurricane Katrina

Caught almost everyone off guard. We responded in September & October 2005 with two missions to the Gulf Coast.

Working with Best Friends Animal Society, we impacted the lives of hundreds of animals, including the 60+ we brought back to NH.

Best Friends asks us to help with about 100 Katrina dogs, most of them in a shelter in Texas. The shelter is closing because they have no money.

A June transport is expected.

And the most recent email...

From one of the NOLA transporters...

Dale, there is a very tiny shelter here that has next to nothing and is in terrible shape. One of the animal control officers is a horrible, cruel man. He beat a lab in the head with a stick because it was barking. He drop kicked a 6 week old kitten cause it was "in his way". Just found out he pulled a rottie behind his truck for 12 blocks to the shelter cause he didn't want to lift it in his truck. We filed a complaint and he was fired today. The rottie has a hurt leg....can you help this dog? (This dog is in Louisiana)

This dog is being evaluated and will join their June transport if he has a stable temperament. As for the animal control officer... Heidi has some ideas.
